Reverend E. H. Pruden To Address Students

• "A CREATIVE FAITH" is the title of the Chapel address to be delivered this Friday by Reverend Edward Hughes Pruden, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O Streets, N. W. The weekly service is held from 12:10 to 12:30 p. m. in the sanctuary of Western Church, 1906 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Since being called to his present pastorate in December, 1936, Dr. Pruden has expanded his congregation from 775 members to one of well over 2,000. So well attended are his Sunday sermons that it is necessary to hold two morning services on this day to alleviate the crowded conditions. President Truman may frequently be seen at these services.

Ph. D. From Edinburgh

Born in Chase City, Virginia, Dr. Pruden was educated at the University of Richmond, the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Yale Divinity School, and the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, from which he received his Ph. D. in 1931.

For five years he served as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Petersburg, Virginia. Soon after, he and his wife went to China where they served as guest teachers at the University of Shanghai.

Varied Posts in Washington

During his service as a pastor in Washington, Dr. Pruden has been President of the Washington Federation of Churches, President of the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and Washington correspondent for the Christian Century. He served as a preacher on missions sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches recently.

It has been customary for Rev. Pruden to speak at the University Chapel services annually. Two years ago he delivered a series of six addresses at Chapel.

Vet Check Woes? Better Read This

• VETERANS WHO have any questions concerning their subsistence checks are advised to meet with the Veteran Administration Contact Representative this Wednesday between 9 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. The representative will be in Room 202 of the new Student Union Annex, 2127 G. Street, N. W.

This is the most expedient method of clearing up check difficulties, and the University Veterans Office asks that student veterans with inquiries about their checks make it a point to file those inquiries with the official representative.

University Student Dies in Auto Wreck; 5 Others Injured

• GEORGE KRUGER, Senior in School of Government, died last Thursday evening as a result of an automobile accident which occurred Tuesday on the Baltimore-Philadelphia highway. A member of Phi Alpha fraternity, Kruger was enroute to the basketball game in Madison Square Garden with fraternity brothers Paul Gordon, Irving Fleishman, Martin Kirsch, Ira Kalfus, and Harry Shapiro, all of whom were seriously injured.

A large trailer truck swerved in front of the car driven by Fleishman, making a left turn from a right-hand lane. Fleishman attempted to stop, but the car skidded into the side of the trailer.

Kruger, Kirsch, and Gordon were taken to Baltimore City Hospital. Kruger was reported to have a fractured skull. Gordon suffered a broken jaw and lacerated neck. He is now in Garfield Hospital here. "Bo" Kirsch, former varsity football player, broke a collarbone and several ribs. He is recuperating at home.

Johns Hopkins Hospital admitted Shapiro, who has undergone plastic surgery to replace part of an ear and suffered the amputation of his right thumb, and Ira Kalfus, former Sports Editor of The Hatchet, who was badly cut in the face, suffered a broken collarbone and ribs, and had a brain concussion. Fleishman suffered a cut forehead and hand.

The occupants of a second car, fraternity brothers of the injured boys, gave emergency first aid and later gave blood for transfusions.

During the week, many students and Dr. Burnice Jarman, University Registrar, visited the boys who are in Baltimore. Visiting hours are in the afternoon. All the boys have asked to see their friends.

Float Represents University In Presidential Inauguration

• FIRST UNIVERSITY ever to be represented in a Presidential Inaugural Parade, the school that was the dream of the first president of the United States will proudly proclaim its importance to the nation with a float twenty feet high and fifty six feet long. The University Band, Cheerleaders, and drum majorettes will also march in the parade on January 20, when Harry S. Truman takes the oath of office.

Sponsored by The University Hatchet, the float is being prepared by every major student activity on the campus.

Editor Describes Cherry Tree And Lists Subscription Plans

By GEORGE BENNSKY

• ANN BRANDENBURGER, editor of The 1949 Cherry Tree, has announced that extensive progress is being made on The Cherry Tree, with the project most pressing being the subscription drive which will get underway on January 11 and continue until February 14.

This year's annual, which will retail at $1.50 per copy compared to last year's $4.50, has a subscription goal of 2,000, the editor disclosed. As an incentive, large cups will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority selling the most subscriptions. The individual making the most sales will receive a smaller cup.

Subscription Books

It was further announced that orders may be placed and subscription books may be obtained every afternoon, Mondays through Fridays in the Cherry Tree office on the third floor of the Bender Building. Laura Thompson, circulation manager, will be available at the yearbook office to give any further information.

Elaborating on the work of The Cherry Tree thus far, the annual's editor disclosed that the delivery date for the yearbook has been set tentatively as between April 15 and May 1. She added that this year's book will mirror the story of the school year, month by month, instead of being divided into sections for the Administration, Greeks, sports, etc. An attempt is being made to model the annual after Time and Life in conciseness and color.

Group Pictures

Organizations that have purchased pages will therefore have their group pictures and writeups placed with one of their important affairs. Seniors will be the only group having a separate section and individual pictures.

Another distinctive feature will be its theme, a take-off on the sayings of Benjamin Franklin's Poor Richard's Almanac. Each month will be opened by a title page containing a saying appropriate to the month and a line cut illustrating the saying. Even some of the advertisements will be made up on the Poor Richard idea.

Smaller Sizes

To bring the price within the range of most students' budgets, The Cherry Tree will be 6" by 9" in size. It will be designed not only for the students but also for the alumni. Nineteen thousand copies will be distributed to alumni all over the nation.

The editor further disclosed that any organizations which have not sent in their contracts, write-ups, or lists of activities must do so by Friday, January 14, or forfeit their place in The Cherry Tree. This action is necessary since the printer's deadline is March 1. All organizations that have purchased space must inform Barbara Fisher, organization editor, by Friday, January 14, as to when they wish to have their group pictures taken.

It is understood that unusual or interesting informal snapshots of campus life and photographs of fraternity and sorority rushing are needed to make up composite pages.

Representatives of major campus activities met a month ago to form an advisory committee to further the float plan. The idea was not publicized at that time pending the necessary clearance with University authorities and with the Inaugural Committee.

University permission and financial assistance were obtained through Miss Virginia Kirkbride, director of women's activities, and General Ulysses S. Grant III, vice-president of the University. General Grant has maintained a continuing interest in the project, and is largely responsible for the forward strides of the past month, Frank Simmons, Hatchet Business Manager, reports.

Construction began Saturday on the float, the design for which was submitted by Bob Dentz and Chuck Appel. Taking form in the trap room of Lisner Auditorium is a huge replica of Lisner Library and flanking buildings, C and D, plus a large pedestal and statue of George Washington similar to the Houdon replica standing in the library lobby.

Theme of the float is "George Washington University prepares today's students as tomorrow's leaders." (See FLOAT, Page 10)

See Exam Schedule For Any Conflict

• EACH SEMESTER The Hatchet prints the examination schedule of the University in at least two editions.

If a student has more than three examinations scheduled on the same day, an adjustment can be made with one of the instructors to schedule one of the examinations during another period.

Corrections and changes will be found in the following courses: Business Administration 102x, 185, 52x; Chemistry 11, 21; Electrical Engineering 111, 107; English 71; Journalism 111; Mathematics 141; Physics 5, 113; Romance Languages, French 1 and 4, and Spanish 1. The complete schedule appears on pages 7, 8 and 9 of this issue.

• INAUGURAL FLOATS are big projects. They take plenty of planning and hard work. There's red tape involved, and money, lots of it. Cooperation throughout the complete chain of command here has created a thing even bigger than our combined imaginations could conjure.

The idea came to us as we sat in conference, gazing into our beer at one of those little places up on Pennsylvania Avenue where the problems of the campus are solved nightly.

Nobody knows who first suggested this float business, but everybody likes to think it was his idea. It seemed fitting that the University which has risen out of the dream of the first president of the United States should be represented in an inaugural parade, since education is such an increasingly important part of the American scene.

First was born the tremendous idea of the float itself, sketched on a paper napkin. Some practical individual brought us out of the clouds of college glory with the abrupt announcement that the financing of such an undertaking would be no easy job. Thousands of dollars go into floats to represent the interests of the states of the union, political parties, and civic organizations.

But student cooperation would eliminate labor costs. The only problem would be materials.

General Ulysses S. Grant III, vice-president of the University, who has contributed most generously of time and ideas to make this brain-child a reality, made arrangements for University sanction of float plans, and for complete financing of construction in accordance with a plan submitted by Frank Simmons, Hatchet Business Manager.

Recognized by the Inaugural Committee as symbolizing a true contribution to the nation, the float will be the first and only such one ever entered in an inaugural parade by a University.

Construction has already begun. Janitors in Lisner Auditorium lean on their brooms and stare in amazement at students carting miles of two by fours, acres of construction board, and armfuls of tools into

Taxation and Representation

• ASSESSMENTS LEVIED by the Interfraternity Council have been subject to much criticism which, we think, is hardly justified. There are those who think that the IFC should not be allowed to levy taxes of any kind upon fraternity men. Others think that some legislation should require delegates to obtain approval of their chapters, at least on money matters, before voting in weekly meetings. We see no reason for such action at this time.

Doctor bills for intramural accidents occurring prior to the insurance system now in effect, which amounted to several hundreds of dollars, the annual interfraternity rush smoker and a Christmas party for unfortunate kids, both black and white, have been the instances for assessment among fraternities thus far this year. In each case, resolutions were tabled in order to allow time for delegates to get chapter approval. Each delegate has had time on every issue which has faced the Council to get opinions from his fraternity, either in meeting, or by mere expression of individual opinions.

There can be no dispute that assessments thus far have been for worth-while causes. The charitable gesture at Christmas cost each man fifty cents. The insurance idea, for which we are especially grateful, brought with it in addition to a year-long policy, a free dance, and payment of approximately five hundred dollars to cover repair jobs on broken bones.

Unless the IFC falls back to the old plan of the not-so-distant past, when Greek gods legislated themselves, in addition to the keys which they well deserve, great metal medallions, orchids for their dates, and everything else except ginger ale—unless they attempt what will probably be impossible anyway in view of their generosity thus far, we see no just cause for complaint.

Obituary

• GEORGE KRUGER, 24, a student in the School of Government here, died in Baltimore City Hospital last Thursday night as a result of injuries sustained in an automobile accident last Tuesday. Death came at 6:15 p. m. and was caused by skull fracture and severe brain concussion.

A member of Phi Alpha fraternity, Kruger was a Business Administration major and had been a reader for Professor Tillema of the Political Science Department. He is survived by his mother and father and four sisters.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon with interment at the Chev Shalom Cemetery in south-east Washington.

the trap room below the stage. Section by section, the great twenty by fifty-six foot replica of Lisner Library and flanking buildings will be completed, and at the last minute, hoisted to the stage of the Auditorium, assembled, and rolled on to a truck.

Students in every school of the University, every club and activity, have been asked to help produce what promises to be a worthy University contribution to one of the greatest parades this city has ever seen.

It's good to see so many students combine their efforts for one cause—the advancement of the name of the University. With a great deal of pride and satisfaction, tempered with a respectable amount of modesty, happy to see our experiment a success, we've got to shout it—never let it be said we don't, because we do... we got spirit.

On Other Campuses

By HAL HART

• WE WERE PLEASANTLY surprised this week to receive the student newspaper, "Honi Soit," from the University of Sydney, Australia, as the first in exchange with the Hatchet.

They certainly seem to take their student politics seriously "down under." To quote from an article on the back page: "Student self-government during the past year has reached an all-time low for corruption, machine organization, and complete disregard for the fundamental rights of the self-governed."

Then Honi Soit presents a brief sketch of some of its "more notorious politicians." About one politico they say, "He started the year as a student dabbling in political affairs—now he's a politician dabbling in student affairs." About another they say that he adheres to archaic principles of honesty, even in student affairs, but is a "fairly good bloke, even though he owes us a whisky."

NEW COURSE DEPARTMENT

Sixteen women students at the University of Nevada are taking roller skating as their physical education course this semester.

Male occupants of the University of Miami's dormitories are now being offered a 16-week course in domestic science. The only requirement is that the "chefs" must eat their own food.

Realizing that "most women don't know what's happening at a basketball game," the sports staff of the University of Washington Daily recently held a seminar on the "Principles and Problems of Basketball Observing" for women only.

STRANGE PREFERENCE

Advertisement in an issue of the Daily Californian: "Wanted, male student to share room with private bath."

MURDER, HE SAYS!

Five fraternity men at the University of Washington recently decided to liven things up a bit. They laid one of their buddies on the floor, poured catsup over him, and reported a murder to the local police. Several police cars and an ambulance showed up at the house before the officers discovered it was all just a joke. The "joke" netted the students a charge of disorderly conduct, which was later dismissed, and severe condemnation from the Inter-Fraternity Council and the school.

DOUBLE LIFE

The Rider News reports that a University faculty adviser was arrested for disorderly conduct when he stood up and shouted, "Toss it this way, babe," during a performance at a theater.

SEMUTAN

The Morningside Californian reporter offers this advice:

Do you take tests with that tired, loggy feeling? Are you nervous, irritated, worried by the thought of taking exams? If so, switch to the new Roberts study methods and they will become an exhilarating, intellectual adventure. You will look forward to exams with eagerness, anticipation. Life will have a new meaning for you.

It seems that Morningside's Psych Professor W. H. Roberts is giving a series of six lectures on "How to Study." The first lecture concerns "Common Difficulties" and is followed by talks entitled "Plans," "Concentration," "Reading," "Notes," and "Exams."

Damnation

• STUDENTS GRADE their teachers at a dozen or more colleges and universities throughout the country. At some institutions, systems of a purely informative nature are devised, to help teachers become better fitted to their jobs. At others, administrations often follow advice of students by removing or reprimanding faulty faculty members.

Whether such a program is actually beneficial to all concerned, whether it would seem to be of value for this University, we are not fully prepared to report at this time.

There is a growing tendency here, however, for students to choose courses in order to study under certain instructors, or to avoid certain faculty members, even to the point of accepting inconvenient class hours and Saturday classes.

One young sophomore breezed into the Political Science headquarters during registration last week, and asked the fellow sitting at the table, "Say, what kind of guy is this man Stoddart, can you tell me?"

"I'm afraid I can't, was the amused reply. "You see, I'm Stoddart."

The poor student had no choice but to register for Stoddart's course.

It's On The Record

By FRENCH CRAWFORD SMITH

• A NEW SYMPHONY by an American composer is usually cause for interest, if not boundless enthusiasm, on the part of the music world. Rain, therefore, did not deter a large audience from hearing the National Symphony Orchestra play Henry Cowell's Fifth Symphony, written for Hans Kindler, or from giving it a warm reception at its initial performance.

The symphony is based on a four-note motive. At first hearing the first three movements appeared somewhat aboriginal, the fourth classical. Boasting a "new kind of musical internationalism," the work presents the gamelon music of Java and Bali and, subsequently, the listener is treated to a musical "Cook's Tour," ranging from exotic oriental patterns to techniques more familiar to him. The first movement is pervaded by pentatonic melody and a rather insistent rhythm. The second movement affords the listener an opportunity to hear the famed Cowell "tone-cluster." In his early works, Cowell's theory of "tone-clusters" was applied principally to the performance of note groups on the piano by means of the fist or forearm. In this instance, of course, the orchestra develops the interval of seconds, which enters conically at first, until a chord built in seconds is formed—this is the "tone-cluster." The effect thereby created is quaint but by no means unpleasant to hear. The "presto" movement is brevity itself. It is humorous, whimsical; at times it is atonal but it reverts to the familiar diatonic harmonization. In the final movement, the initial motive is treated first in modal choral style, then fugally, and finally returning to the choral style. It is conceived along conventional lines and occasionally becomes grandiose although it never becomes melodramatic.

Taken as a whole, the symphony is pleasant but not striking. It may not become a byword in music circles but it is a substantial composition and should be included in the repertoires of our orchestras, for it is the sort of work that profits by frequent repetition.

The F minor Symphony of Tchaikovsky was the final selection. Its colorful, compelling melodies contrasted sharply with the less vigorous statements of the Cowell work. Dr. Kindler conducted the familiar warhorse in fine fashion, exhorting the players to the utmost of their ability. The result was a tumultuous burst of applause which started before the final strains had died away. Kindler's tasteful arrangement of Handel's Prelude and Fugue in D Minor, opened the program.

• AN OVERFLOW CROWD, dominated by young people, attended the concert at the National Gallery on January 2. Richard Bales conducted the orchestra; the soloist was Jan Tomasow.

The first half of the program was devoted to Beethoven. The overture to Coriolanus, Opus 62, was played in a precise, yet moving manner. The dramatic highlights of the work were well achieved.

Mr. Tomasow was first heard in Beethoven's Romance in F major, Opus 50. The second of his two romanzas, this one is marked "adagio cantabile" and requires considerable technical ability on the part of the soloist. Tomasow was in his element in this work and was ably supported by the orchestra.

A worthy interpretation of the seldom-heard Beethoven First Symphony followed. It, too, was well delineated, making one wonder why it is scorned as being of "chiefly historical value."

Following intermission, the customary tribute to American composers was made in the form of a sparkling performance of Copland's Prairie Night and Celebration Dance—taken from his Billy the Kid Suite. Two thunderous blasts by the tympanist in the former took one listener completely unawares; the latter was noteworthy for its rather frenzied, or should we say frantic, ending.

Tomasow returned to glowingly perform Saint-Saens' Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso. This, too, calls for virtuosic qualities on the part of the soloist and happily, Mr. Tomasow played superbly. The National Symphony is fortunate in having such an able musician as its concert master.

• GOOD NEWS—or is it?—for those with long-playing record attachments. Columbia announced yesterday that it will have available this month a "new seven-inch non-breakable Microgroove phonograph record, which plays as long as conventional ten and twelve-inch single discs." Its popular and folk music series will sell for 60 cents while the masterworks series will sell for 90 cents. These prices do not include tax. There is an initial listing of 10 records in this latest innovation to startle the peace-loving collector.

There are two flies in the ointment, however, judging from the sample record we received. Obviously, they cannot be played with existing record changers. We will have to have a gadget now to handle three sizes of records. (If the rumor about RCA Victor's recent activities comes true—that they plan a counter-offensive in the form of discs to be played at 45 rpm—we will also need a three-speed turntable! How complicated can record collecting get?) The other gimmick would appear to be the unused space on these discs, particularly evident on the popular records. They should not "slip" on the turntable, however, for thoughtful Columbia has provided a series of ridges immediately outside the label which should eliminate this hazard.

Omicron Delta Kappa Fraternity Initiates National I. F. C. Chairman

Girls' Recreation Association Holds Banquet Thursday

• "REPORT ON THE OLYMPICS," is the title of the talk to be presented by Miss Dorothy Whitley at the Annual Fall Awards Banquet sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association on Thursday at 6:30 p. m., in the Elk's Club, 919 H Street, N. W. All University women are invited.

Miss Whitley, a Foreign Affairs major at the University, went with the American Olympic team as a registered nurse during the games in Europe last summer. Upon returning to America she wrote a 60-page report on her experiences and observations. During the war she served actively as a Navy nurse.

Miss Whitley is an active campus leader. Among her numerous extra-curricular occupations are Assistant Board historian, Quassa president, Staughton Hall Council president, the Current Affairs Club, and Phi Pi Epsilon.

During the banquet nine women students will receive cups and letters for outstanding participation in sports at the University.

Tickets for the chicken dinner banquet are $1.75 each and may be obtained from W. R. A. Board members, the Women's Physical Education Office in Building H, or from Mrs. Farrar in Columbian House.

It is the purpose of the Women's Recreation Association to promote better standards of sportsmanship in all recreational activities. To further this purpose the W. R. A. provides financial backing for embryo sports clubs, and seeks to advance interest in recreational activities by sponsoring a series of awards.

Permanent individual cups are awarded annually in tennis, golf, swimming, archery, and rifle. Points are given for being selected to play on class, odd-even and varsity teams. A felt G. W. monogram is awarded to those who accumulate 500 points. One thousand points entitles the winner to a large chenille letter in buff and blue.

Points are also given in individual sports such as riding, badminton and bowling.

The W. R. A. banquets are sponsored in the fall and spring to make these awards.

Freshman Meeting Set for Wednesday

ATTENTION, all Freshmen! Your time is fast fleeting. On Wednesday there will be a Freshman Class Meeting.

Time is 4:10 p. m.
Place is Government 1.
Refreshments are served.
And you'll have lots of fun.

Spring Drive To Be Held By Boosters

• COLONIAL BOOSTERS' Executive Committee formally approved, at its meeting last Monday, a spring membership drive to facilitate planning and preparation of next season's activities during the summer.

One reason for the spring campaign is that the committee will be able to use funds collected at this time for preparatory activities during the summer when the working membership is not engrossed in the usual heavy schedule of fall and winter programs. Another reason is that several of the University's 1949 football games will be played before the beginning of the fall semester.

According to present plans, next year's Booster membership will be restricted to 1,000. The center "D" section of the stands will be reserved for members at all football games.

The Executive Committee, at Monday's meeting, also discussed need for another school mascot, approved a motion to erect a suitable trophy in honor of the 1948 football team, approved certain changes in their constitution to be submitted to Student Life, and voted to investigate the possibility of paying expenses of two cheerleaders to out-of-town games. Cheerleaders' expenses are not covered by the present budget.

Another meeting of the committee will be held when the proposed changes in the constitution are acted upon by the Student Life Committee.

Off-the-Cuff Talks Due Next Month

• PRELIMINARIES for the All-University Extemporaneous Speaking Contest will be held February 7 and 8, with finals on February 9. The contest is open to any undergraduate carrying six or more hours, and there will be separate divisions for men and women.

General topic of the contest is "American Foreign Policy." One hour before speaking, each entrant will draw two related topics and may speak on either one. With one hour to prepare a four to six-minute talk, he may use any materials available but will use no notes during his speech.

Contestants must file intention of entrance with Mr. Henigan, Room 3 of Linsner Auditorium, on or before January 31.

National Council Sees Ceremony

• OMICRON DELTA KAPPA, Men's National Honorary at the University, initiated Judge Frank Myers December 17 at the Raleigh Hotel. Taking advantage of the fact that its National Council was meeting in Washington that weekend, the members of the local Circle arranged an impressive initiation with all members of the National Council participating in the initiation.

The local Circle was represented by its president, Jack Voneiff, as well as Dick Generelly, Jim Van Story and Jack Embrey. Faculty Secretary and University Director of Men's Activities Max Farrington was also present and played a conspicuous part in the ceremonies.

The National Council was represented by Dr. R. C. McDanel, ODK national president and history professor at the University of Richmond; Dr. Marten ten Hoor, vice-president and Dean at the University of Alabama; Dr. R. W. Bishop, secretary, and Dean at the University of Cincinnati; as well as Province Deputies Dr. P. H. Farrier of V.P.I., A. O. French of L.S.U., C. Stanton Balfour of the Pittsburgh Foundation, Gordon Johnston of the University of Denver, Dr. Danner Mahood of the University of Kentucky, E. A. Batchelder of the University of Pittsburgh, and A. J. Walker of Georgia Tech.

Judge Myers, who was tapped for ODK at the Homecoming Ball, was ill at the time of the regular initiation and therefore was initiated at this time. A graduate of the University with B. A. and Law degrees, Judge Myers has been active in civic and fraternal affairs in the city for many years.

As Senior Councilor of Kappa Alpha and as the National Chairman of the National Inter-Fraternity Conference he is an outstanding figure among fraternity men. In addition to his fraternal connections, Judge Myers is active in the local Bar Associations. He was appointed to the Local Municipal bench by President Truman last year.

Author Gervasi Speaks Tomorrow At Hillel House

• FRANK GERVASI, journalist and author, will speak at Hillel House Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. The topic of his talk will be "Palestine—Present and Future."

Among Mr. Gervasi's several books is "To Whom Palestine?" published in 1946. In its foreword he tells of coming to the Holy Land in 1940 with pro-Arab views, and leaving with Zionist convictions.

Currently a contributing editor with Collier's Magazine, Mr. Gervasi will leave shortly for an assignment in the Middle East. In over 20 years' experience, he has visited such countries as Spain, Portugal, Italy, Hungary, England, Greece, the Middle East and the Far East. His book, "War Has Seven Faces" describes his 36,000 mile, eight month trip around the world, which he made in 1941. The trip was reported in stages by Collier's Magazine.

A question-answer session will follow Mr. Gervasi's talk which is sponsored by the Hillel's Zionist committee, IZFA. Everyone is invited to the Hillel House, 2129 F St., N. W.

Teachers' Exam In February

• ALL CANDIDATES for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Education must take the National Teacher Examinations. The Examinations will be held at the University on February 19th and 26th. Application blanks may be obtained in the office of the School of Education and must be filed in that office not later than January 22.

Kayser vs Kyser Provide Laughs On College of Musical Knowledge

By JIM PEARCE

• DEAN ELMER Louis Kayser finally got a dose of his own medicine, but it wasn't of the proverbial "bitter pill" type. Our humorous Dean of the University Students Division performed as a student on Kay Kyser's nation-wide American Broadcasting Company show, the College of Fun and Knowledge, Tuesday, January 3. He wanted to appear with the Ol' Dean on Monday, but was forced to send regrets because: "I have to take the knowledge without the fun Monday at George Washington University where I will be registering students for the second semester."

These Washington broadcasts were transcribed in the Presidential Room of the Statler Hotel and will be heard coast to coast over the ABC network, 4 to 4:30 p.m., during inaugural week. The program will be heard locally on WMAL, and it was announced by a University graduate, Harold Gordon Stepler, A.B. '38 and LL.B. '39.

Members of the audience at the Statler Hotel where the transcription was made were inclined to believe that Dean Kayser "out-humored" the famous comedian, Kay Kyser.

When the program neared its conclusion, the Dean Kayser answers to the Kay Kyser questions provoked such enthusiastic laughter that the Ol' Dean complained that two Kayseres were too many for his program.

When asked to describe his George Washington University lectures, Dean Kayser replied that the broadcasting situation was typical. "Someone begins by asking me bonehead questions, and I carry on from there." That one brought the house down.

Dean Kayser was awarded the diploma of fun and knowledge for making a perfect score on the program and also a wrist watch and a bag of Pillsbury's (advertisement, of course) flour. At the end of the program he added a few more laurels to his laurels by being judged the best scholar of the broadcast. For this he received a 12 place setting chest of silver.

Psych Meeting Hears Cofer On Rorschach Testing

• RORSCHACH INK BLOT testing techniques will be the general topic of Dr. Charles N. Cofer at this Friday's meeting of the University Psychology Club. It will be held in Government 101 at 8:30 p. m.

Dr. Cofer, a member of the University of Maryland Psychology Department and a noted authority on the Rorschach examination, will be speaking on one of the most publicized forms of "free association" psychiatric testing.

Rorschach's examination comes under the classification of projective techniques in the field of psychiatric testing. These are techniques of personality evaluation which consist of presenting the individual being tested with rather nondescript stimuli and forcing him to make a response.

Ed Kilgore, program chairman, asks that all members be present for this meeting. Any students who are interested in becoming members of the Psychology Club and anyone else who would like to hear Dr. Cofer's discussion are invited to attend.

Portrait Exhibit To Represent Past Presidents

• AN INAUGURAL Portrait Exhibit of oil painting of the 15 presidents and acting presidents of the 128 year old George Washington University is now on exhibit at the University Library, 2023 G Street, N. W.

The exhibit will continue until January 31. It is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., Monday through Friday; from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday; and from 2 to 6 p.m. on Sunday. The exhibit will be closed on Inauguration Day.

The portraits are originals and copies of the University presidents.

Ford's Follies...

By John J. Ford

MY COLD WAR WITH CHILDREN

• I HAVE BEEN the subject of some mean comment of late because of my cold war with children. It is true that the children of the world hate me and for some years now I have agreed with George Bernard Shaw that, "Youth is a wonderful thing—it's a shame to waste it on children."

My cold war with children has been going on ever since I have been taller than they are. Children frown, stick out their tongues, and kick whenever they see me. Small babies scream whenever I come into the room. Older children throw stones, stretch rope across the sidewalk for me to trip over, and do anything to embarrass me.

Whenever I go to visit friends who have a small child, the little brat invariably screams the whole evening, often necessitating my leaving early to avoid driving everyone mad. I'm the guy children kick in the shins when they get on the bus, the one they spill their ice cream on at a family party, and when a child says certain words that horrify his mother who "has never heard him talk like that before!" I'm always the one he says them to. And for some reason the mothers never quite forgive me.

I think the reason for the children of the world being so out of hand is the attitude the modern world holds toward them. Due to the dual influence of humanism and such children mongers of literature as William Wordsworth, Henry Vaughan, etc., the average person today has an innocent-sprite-freshly-come-from-God opinion of children. I contend, however, that the child is the human animal as yet untamed. On close observation, a child is seen to grope like the brute animal for food or other things he wants, and falling to get them he screams just as the beast screams his desires through the jungle. A child never comes with a conscience—we teach him to have one.

Because of the humanistic attitude toward children, there is a tendency to blame a child's wrongs on something other than the child itself. Thus, certain fallacies have sprung up that provide excuses for the innate cruelties of children. For example, there is the "stage" fallacy. Let me illustrate:

I was sitting at home one evening when friends came to visit. As soon as they entered, their three-year-old son came running over to me and bit fiercely into my arm. I struggled to free myself and turned frantically to his mother.

"He bit me!" I shouted. She walked over calmly, pulled the brat away, nonchalantly wiped the blood off his lips, and said, "Don't mind him, he's at that biting stage. They all go through that stage when they bite everything they see." She didn't bother to explain why I was the first thing the child saw.

Similarly, when you're a guest for dinner and the darling of the house throws the soup in your face, you are calmly informed that "He's at that throwing stage."

For my part, I see no reason why everyone who is a friend or relative of someone who has a child has to suffer while the kid goes through the biting, throwing, kicking, slapping, ripping, hiding, tripping, screaming and myriad other stages.

This does not, of course, explain the amazing unanimity of feel the children of the world have against me. Even my nephews, Jackie, Billie, and Bobbie are secretly out to get me. Oh, they act innocently enough in front of their mothers, but they always sneak into the closet and rip the buttons off my coat, or throw my shoes on the roof at night, and next morning swear they know nothing about it.

Although all the children of the world hate me, those in my home town despise me most of all. Whenever I return home they unite to annoy me out of town. They rap on the window at night, smash eggs against the door, write on the windows with chalk, let the air out of the car tires, and generally work things to the point where my family asks in a nice way if maybe I won't like to go back to college early.

The cold war finally broke completely into the open and I ended all diplomatic relations with children of the world, when the kids of my home town set my house on fire. My father and I, with some aid from the town's volunteer fire department, put the fire out. The repairs on the house cost $400.

I was standing in front of the house after we had put the fire out when Mrs. Muldoon, who hasn't missed a scandal or anything else in forty years, came walking by.

"What happened?" she asked.

"Those horrible kids in this town set the house on fire!" I said. "Oh, don't mind them," she said, "They're at that stage when they love to play with fire."

Five Students Make New Poetry Anthology

• FIVE UNIVERSITY students have written poems accepted for publication in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry, Mr. Dennis Hartman, secretary of the National Poetry Association, announced. Poems selected are "Autumnal Fog," by M. A. Parmeter; "Longing," by L. Harken; "Impression," by E. Freeman; "Arbutus," by Hugh Hartley; and "Marriage Day," by James Lyda. The Anthology is a compilation of poetry written by college men and women from all sections of the country, and selection of winners is made from thousands of poems submitted yearly.

Takes Elect Chapter Officers

• ACTIVES AND PLEDGES of Tau Kappa Epsilon elected officers. The active chapter officers are Mick Buckley, president; Dick Ransom, vice-president; Glenn Gibbs, secretary; Oscar Alvig, treasurer; Chuck Spence, chaplain; Gordon Whitt, pledge master; Jack Lewis, chapter historian; Jack Fox, sergeant at arms; Alfred Hiss, IFC delegate, and Al Baloga, social chairman. John McDonough, Ted Lemen, Joe Handiside, and Don Wyckoff were elected president, secretary, treasurer, IFC delegate and social chairman respectively for the pledge class.

Sessions Planned For Radio Code And Construction

• SESSIONS IN RADIO Code and elementary radio construction will start during the between semesters holiday after the final examination period.

These attempts to aid those interested in radio code and in elementary radio construction are being inaugurated by the Institute of Radio Engineers student branch, and the first session will be held at the home of Matt Flato. The service will be free to all University students, though there will be a charge for the cost of parts used in the construction portion of the program.

Further information can be obtained from Norris Hekiminn at Michigan 2169 or Matt Flato at SLigo 7817.

Women's Chorus Sought for "Mikado"

• ROBERT L. LANDERS, director of the Air Force Glee Club, announces the forthcoming production of "The Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan. The operetta will be presented in Lisner Auditorium late in March.

Male leads were chosen from the Air Force Glee Club, whose other members will constitute the men's chorus.

Dr. Robert H. Harmon, director of Glee Clubs at the University, has named the women's leads. The women's chorus has not yet been formed. Interested sopranos and altos should contact Mr. Landers at Franklin 9000, ext. 644, or Betty Birkicht at METropolitan 5323.

Slide Rule Slants

By GLEN & JERRY

• ONCE AGAIN, Theta Tau, Professional Engineer Fraternity, has chosen 12 outstanding men for leadership and engineering professionalism from the School of Engineering. The men were initiated Saturday afternoon at Lisner Auditorium and later feted at a party at the Cameron Club in Alexandria. Plenty of good food and drinks were served and an excellent time was had by all. Not only was this party in celebration of the new initiates but also to pay tribute to Professor N. B. Ames who was chosen Grand Regent of the National Chapter of Theta Tau at a recent convention. Those who know Professor Ames will agree that the National Chapter made a very wise decision in choosing the "Deacon" for their leader.

The Christmas Tree Lighting ceremony which is the only All-University function sponsored by the School of Engineering was a huge success due to the efforts of Don Davis, chairman of the committee. Further congratulations are now in order for Don, who was recently married during the Christmas holidays. The entire Engineering School joins with us in wishing them the best of happiness in the years to come.

Tickets are now available for the annual Engineer's Ball to be held February 12 in the Hotel Washington Hall of Nations Ballroom. This is the biggest social event of the year for all engineers so be sure to buy your tickets early. These tickets may be obtained from any member of the Engineer's Council or the writers, Glen Ballowe and Jerry Michael.

You probably noticed at the last registration, January 3, that the engineering professors relinquished their positions at the registration desks to serve only in the advisory capacity. The entire registration was very capably handled by senior students. We hope that this policy will continue to be practiced in the future, as we personally feel that this arrangement increased the efficiency and speed of registration.

HUMOR DEPARTMENT—"Buzzy" Buzzell has been requested to bring additional copies of his "little Engineering Manual" which he circulated during Concrete and Masonry Laboratory. We have never seen such great interest in any other Engineering textbook as was shown this pint-sized "Timoshenko."

"Adventure in Music" Concert Series Opens Varied Program in Lisner

Lt. Col. Howard Leads Orchestra

• "ADVENTURE IN MUSIC," a two-month series of concerts by the U. S. Air Force Concert Orchestra and Glee Club, began January 6 in Lisner Auditorium. General Ulysses S. Grant III, vice-president of the University, gave a short address opening the series, which is being broadcast by WASH-FM and the Continental FM Network.

John Ball of WOL was master of ceremonies and music commentator introducing each number on the varied program. The opening selection was the overture to Glinka's opera "Russian and Ludmilla." The second, "The Story of Celeste," by George Klinsinger, was narrated by M/Sgt. Abrasha Robofsky and conducted by the composer. Sgt. Robofsky, baritone, continued with "Vision Fugitive" from "Herodiade" by Massenet. His encore was "The Blind Ploughman."

"Hep" Howard Mr. Ball introduced "Hep Howard and his Hot Hundred" playing a swing version of Ippolitow-Ivanov's "Procession of the Sardar." After a few bars, Lieutenant Colonel (See CONCERT, Page 10)

Job Placement for Senior Class Discussed At First Meeting

• JOB PLACEMENT for seniors was discussed at the first meeting of the Senior Class held on January 5. The job placement chairman urged all seniors to return the applications they received as soon as possible so that an effective placement organization may be carried out. For those who did not receive a letter with these forms, extra copies may be obtained in the class office located in the Student Union Annex.

Class dues are two dollars and are payable immediately in the class office. These dues enable seniors to attend the various affairs during class week and will be good for a discount on the Senior prom tickets.

The next class meeting will be held March 15.

Sociological Society To Meet Thursday

• GLEN L. TAGGART, Ph. D., will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Lester F. Ward Sociological Society on Thursday evening, January 13, at 8:30 p.m., in Room C, Columbian House.

Dr. Taggart will discuss the foreign policy of the United States with respect to agricultural relations of Central and South American countries, commenting on the social structure and social problems of those countries. His talk will be illustrated with pictures.

Dr. Taggart is Extension Specialist in Rural Sociology with the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

Minnows Still Needed By Oquassa

• WOMEN IN the University who are interested in joining Oquassa, synchronized swimming club, are invited to try out for membership in either the elementary or the advanced groups beginning today. Tryouts will continue throughout the remainder of the semester on each Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 p. m. at the Y. W. C. A. Pool, Seventeenth and K Streets, N. W.

Those admitted to membership will be Minnows for a semester of probationary work before being advanced to the status of an Oquassa.

The test includes strokes, diving, techniques and styles of swimming, and a variety of other miscellaneous skills such as treading, floating and sculling.

Those admitted as Minnows last Thursday are Violet Albrecht and Joyce Johnson.

The Oquassas are working on their Third Annual Water Show which will be presented on April 6 and 7 for the University students. Admission will be about 50c to the full length show.

Featured in the spring show will be many fancy swimming patterns, costumes, music and special lighting effects. It is planned to include some numbers using the boys from the men's half of Oquassa.

Oquassa was founded two years ago as the brain child of a small nucleus of interested women students headed by Miss Virginia Dennis of the Women's Physical Education Department. Since then the club has produced two water shows.

Chet McCall Lists Committees For School Year

• CHET McCALL, Student Council Program-Activity Director, has released the following list of committee assignments for the school year:

Nancy Groves, assistant, Colonial Program Committee; Ushers and Programs—Mary Ann Smith, chairman, Jean Rhodes, Marie Di Maio, Shirley Hastings, Barbara Sweedler, Elaine Ogden, Bert West and Ruth Tomasick, Winnie MacGowan, Alumni Coordinator; Publicity—Hildy Sterling, chairman, Jean Tully, Ruth Dunlop, Peggy Faunce, Sylvia Snka, Joanne Fenton, Mary Ann Foreman, Claudia Chaplin, Ann Courtwright, Jim Anderson and Charlie Redmond.

Activity Calendar Committee—Howard Ticklin, chairman, Julie Hall, Marjorie Hellmann.

United States Air Force Concerts—Al Simmons, chairman, and Ruth Tomasick.

• REPRESENTATIVES OF SAE, Phi Sig, and Sigma Chi surround the newly won Admiral television set, given to the SAE Fraternity by the Phillip Morris cigarette company, sponsors of a recent contest on the campus.

Tatnall Addresses Engineers At Joint Society Meeting

• REGULAR MONTHLY meetings of the University branches of the Engineering Societies were held last week.

ASME and ASCE (American Society of Mechanical Engineers and American Society of Chemical Engineers) held a joint meeting last Wednesday to hear Mr. R. G. Tatnall of the Baldwin Locomotive Works discuss the relationship of metallurgy to applied engineering. Mr. Tatnall included in his discussion several new uses of electrical wire strain gauges—devices which measure tiny "give" in metal when subjected to pressure—to aviation, pipe testing, and gun barrel testing. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

The IRE (Institute of Radio Engineering) held its meeting last Wednesday and heard a lecture by Mr. J. Howard Dellinger, of the Radio Wave Propagation Lab of the Bureau of Standards, who talked on the effect of the layers of the ionosphere on high-frequency transmission and reception. During the meeting, the members voted Bill Whittemore delegate to the Engineer's Council and announced plans to inspect radio station WMAL, the lab at White Oak, and the radio and radar department (See ENGINEERS, Page 16)

Journalism Fraternity To Honor Initiates

• PI DELTA EPSILON, national journalism honorary, will hold a banquet in honor of its new initiates tonight at 7 p. m. at the Sigma Nu House.

Actives and alumni will be present to honor the eight members initiated in December. New actives are Ann Arnold, John Donaldson, Chester McCall, Sara Pine, James Reisch, Frank Simmons, Donald Sparks, and William Warner.

Christmas Party Held for Children At District Home

• CHILDREN from the District Receiving Home were guests of the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Gate and Key Society at their jointly-sponsored Christmas party. It was given on Thursday, December 23, and took up most of the afternoon and evening with movies and dinner. The Inter-Fraternity Council donated the funds, while the Gate and Key Society administered the purchasing of gifts and arrangements.

Committee co-chairmen were Bill Perkins and Jim Foley, and the total amount, including the cost of the presents, came to $255.

The program began at 3 p. m., with the showing of Western movies and shorts. At 5:30 a dinner was given for all of the children with a menu consisting of fruit cocktail, turkey, cranberry sauce, whipped potatoes, peas, olives, celery, fruits and nuts, and ice cream and cake. The dining room was arranged in holiday decorations.

Presents, which weren't given out until Christmas day, consisted of the following: for the girls, 11 wool shirts, 5 dresses, 4 sweaters, 2 bathrobes, 4 hats, and assorted underwear; for the boys, 25 wool sweaters and cigarettes for the older boys.

The District Receiving Home is operated for destitute and vagrant children. The children there range in age from six months to sixteen years. Dr. A. B. Stavsky is superintendent.

Artus Elects Bill Powers; Initiates Twenty Members

Two Delegates Attend Conference

• ANN ARNOLD of the Westminster Club, and Dorothy Simmons of the Wesley Foundation represented the University during the holiday at the United Students Christian Conference at the University of Kansas.

Representatives from forty-six states and several foreign countries met in the University of Kansas Student Union Building, December 27 to January 1.

Discussions concerned with the total strategy for Christian forces in Universities were led by President J. Seelye Bixler of Colby College, Dr. Arnold Nash of the University of North Carolina, Dr. George Kelsey of the Federal Council of Churches, Dr. John Mackay, President of the Princeton Theological Seminary, Dr. D. Elton Trueblood and Mr. H. K. Ting of China.

The University of Kansas made arrangements to house the 2200 delegates. Meals were served in the Student Union cafeteria.

• BILL POWERS was elected president of the Order of Artus, national honorary economics fraternity at a meeting on December 14 at the Delta Phi Epsilon house. At that time also the group initiated twenty new members.

Other officers chosen include Hugh Norton, secretary and Bob Burns, treasurer.

Among the new initiates are Assistant Professor James Coogan, Maurice Baruch, Bob Burns, Ken Burrows, Chuck Cowell, Sid Cox, Gale Gotschall, Al Grenadier, Tom Ishee, Bob Jakes, Stan Klukowski, Oswald Kroggoss, Harry Lamar, Charley Matthews, George Minton, Charles Moran, Jerome Perlmutter, Gene Picciano, Bill Powers, and Bertil Renborg.

The Honorary holds dinners throughout the year at which noted economists speak to the members on topics of current interest. The next affair is being planned for shortly after the beginning of the next semester.

Alexander Darrow Speaks to Art Club

• ALEXANDER DARROW, assistant director of the Abbott Art School, will speak today at 4:00 in Room C of Columbian House at an open meeting sponsored by the University Art Club. All interested persons are invited to attend.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCES

We reprint this, without superfluous comment, from Good Housekeeping, apparently the poor man's JAMA. "Weals, or large blisters, are a typical allergic reaction. Emotional factors may lower the threshold for this response. A New York investigator reports the case of a woman who developed weals when exposed to ultraviolet rays after she had had a sunstroke on the beach. She had remained partly under water for three hours to avoid meeting her sister and brother-in-law—the latter has been "making advances to her."

And from the Saturday Evening Post of December 4, 1948, we culled this neuroanatomical gem—"... her helpful little cute cerebellum went into gear, click."

HOT CONFERENCE

At the past Neurology Conference at Gallinger, a visiting medical dignitary from Belgium was present for the discussion of pain. He sat up front, alongside Dr. Freeman, who was presiding. Dr. Bly was recounting the history of a patient with causalgia, and the diagnostic tension was mounting pas a pas. Just as Dr. Bly reached the peak of the history, the Belgian doctor's right coat pocket began to smoke, sending up real billows. The explanation was perfectly simple. The matches in the pocket had gone off and ignited. There were no casualties and the conference was hardly interrupted for more than 2 or 3 seconds. The Belgian doctor's lack of concern for his person was nothing short of majestic.

HAVE YOU HAD IT?

CHARLIE DALTON, who is known abroad for the wonderful race-track trousers he wears, is, deliberately or no, rapidly accumulating a reputation as a "long-hair." Charlie, in an ordinary conversation with his compeers over coffee at the Gallinger "snack bar," unobtrusively slipped the word "sycophant" into the stream. His compatriots immediately drew back in horror and alarms, scoffing as they went. It turned out that Charlie knew what the word meant, while his colleagues had lived in the pleasurable ignorance of its meaning until that very moment when Charlie took down his hair to show them that it was really long.

BIG FEATHER

JUNE COHEN, very attractive brunette, garnered fame and a small fortune (for medical students) by winning third place in a nation-wide competition on medical reports. For further information, the boys can see June, and those interested in facts can look them up in the files of the local newspapers.

DEJA VUE PHENOMENA

Everything can happen on rounds—and just about everything does. One day, the subject under discussion was the estrogenic treatment of certain diseases. The visiting man asked the student in question what the dose of this particular drug was. The student replied that he didn't know exactly but that he had a good rule of thumb. The visiting man was much interested and requested him to give us all the benefit of the rule. "Well," said the student, "if it comes in ampules, give an ampule. If it comes in tablets, give a tablet."

This, too, happened on rounds and well illustrates the relativity of time. When asked by the Chief Medical Officer how old the patient was, Bill Tribble replied, "She's 28, sir. Well, she may be 29 by now." Sotto voce, someone in the group wondered how often Bill got to see the patients.

CHIT CHAT

MATT PARRISH was handing out cigars one day last week on behalf of his baby. That makes the third little Parrish.

Have you noticed how much young Lionel Barrymore resembles Dr. Fazekas?

Music Commentator for Air Force Series, John Ball, Flies With Civil Air Patrol Himself

By RONALD ROSS

JOHN BALL, the music commentator for the Air Force Concert Orchestra in the "Adventure in Music" series, has had an interesting and varied career.

A graduate of Carrol College, Wisconsin, his first venture was into astronomy. This was followed by a stint as a science writer on the editorial staff of Fortune magazine. Moving into the music field he became music critic for the Brooklyn Eagle. A column on records for the New York World Telegram came next. He wrote this until he came to Washington.

A keen flyer, John Ball has flown since the days of the Curtis "Jenny." He is now an officer in the Civil Air Patrol, and has a fine flying record in that he has never had an accident, nor carried a dissatisfied passenger.

As author to boot, he is the writer of a book, "Records for Pleasure," for those who are interested in music, but who do not know much about it. He has also written other works on the subject, as well as annotating Columbia Masterworks. At the moment he is preparing a new book on records. His own personal collection consisting of more than 15,000 discs.

Mr. Ball, mentioned in "Who's Who" as an authority on records and record collecting, is one of the few who have attained this distinction. He came to Washington at the request of a friend in the record industry to act as a substitute on station WOL. The station was so pleased with his program that they offered him a contract as soon as the show was finished. After due consideration he accepted.

ed. He now has his own radio show, Monday thru Saturday, 9-10 a.m. 12:30-2 p.m. It might almost be called a musical variety show, because he plays anything good of its kind in music—except be-bop.

He prefers to ad-lib the commentaries to his program, both on the radio and in the "Adventure in Music" series, feeling that a script is too mechanical, and in his own words, "There is no need to be pontificate." A commentary should be a personal address to the individual who is interested enough to listen to the music. There are few people in Washington, he says, who like to listen to stuffy commentaries. Instead they should be straight, honest descriptions, and conversational in tone. (Prospective radio commentators please note.) Although he won't admit it on the air, he tries to make the program something in the nature of a course in music appreciation.

Among other things he has played recordings of Prokofiev, Rimsky-Korsakov and Liszt just to mention a few, spiced with selections such as Jan Peerce's "Blue Bird of Happiness," John McCormack's "Macushla" and such popular orchestras as Ray Block and Xavier Cugat.

Junior Panhel Meets

LAST MEETING of this year's Junior Panhellenic Council will be held Wednesday, January 12 at 1 p.m. in room 300 of the Student Union Annex. This will be an important meeting as delegates must decide to what cause the profits from the Goat Show will be donated.

U. Pa. Musical Concert On Alaskans Packs Lisner

• "ALASKA Right Away," a two-act musical comedy, was presented by the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania in Lisner Auditorium last Saturday night.

The play was another of the annual productions given by the University of Pennsylvania in nearby cities. Lisner Auditorium, filled to capacity by both students and play-starved Washingtonians, took on the appearance of a New York opening.

Featuring original music and choreography, the play took place in a small Alaskan town over which two rival senators (Tariff from the North and Fogbound from the South) were fighting to obtain a piece of land necessary to the future success of their respective parties. The two senators, an Eskimo mayor named Joe, and the "Lady Known as Lou" provide the comedy aspects of the play. An all-male chorus and all-male dancers, representing both sexes, set off the professional appearance of the group.

Concert

George S. Howard led the orchestra playing it as written.

Robert L. Landers, Glee Club director, led them in singing Lvovsky's "Hospodi Pomilui," Proffieroe's "Shadow March," and Kern's "I Dream Too Much" with the orchestra. Strauss' "Emperor Waltz" concluded the program.

These concerts, Colonial Program Series events, are sponsored by the Student Council and the General Alumni Association. They will be presented every Thursday in Lisner Auditorium from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m., through February 24.

Next Program

The next program in this music appreciation series will feature Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass Suite," which will be narrated by Catherine Hall, a University student. "Chachi" will be remembered as the lead in the Players' recent production of "John Loves Mary."

Orchestral selections include the "Fingal's Cave Overture" by Mendelssohn and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of the Bumblebee," done first as "Bumble Boogie."

The Glee Club will do a Czech Dance, Lotti's "Zere Langores Nostras," and, with the orchestra, Cole Porter's "Begin the Beguine."

Zeta Tau Alpha Pledges Feted

• ZETA TAU ALPHA introduced its pledges at a formal dance held last Friday from nine to one at the Alexandrian Room in Alexandria, with Mat Roy's orchestra supplying the music. At the end of intermission Pledge Mistress Carol Beaver presented the pledges and their escorts and awarded the girls miniature gold "mad money" carriers attached to gold pencils as gifts. Members of the pledge class include Jane Rosenberger, president; Betty Wilson, secretary; Alice Garner, treasurer; Joyce Johnson, Claire Staig, Gay Haran, Eleanor Ankeny, and Mary Rupert.

Smoke a LUCKY To feel your LEVEL best!

Luckies' fine tobacco picks you up when you're low . . . calms you down when you're tense!

Luckies' fine tobacco puts you on the right level—the Lucky level—to feel your level best, do your level best.

That's why it's important to remember that LUCKY STRIKE MEANS FINE TOBACCO—mild, ripe, light tobacco that makes a thoroughly enjoyable smoke. No wonder more independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers and warehousemen—smoke Lucky Strike regularly than smoke the next two leading brands combined.

Light up a Lucky! Luckies' fine tobacco picks you up when you're low, calms you down when you're tense. So get on the Lucky level where it's fun to be alive. Get a carton and get started today!

Float

leaders." Four sections cut through the float will contain symbolic scenes depicting the efforts of the four major schools of the University—Law, Medicine, Government, and Engineering.

Plans at present call for a moot court session to illustrate the law school, and a diplomatic tea to symbolize the achievement of the School of Government. Plans of the engineering and medical school contributions have not yet been disclosed.

Purely a student project from conception to completion, the float will be financed by the University. Frank Simmons is acting as financial manager of the advisory committee, Bob Klein of Independent Students Association is personnel manager, and Jack Voneiff of Omicron Delta Kappa will handle special arrangements.

It certainly couldn't be spring fever! We guess that it was the spirit of giving that prompted so many guys to pin so many gals during the Christmas holidays. Sigma Nu Ed Ryan pinned to Margie Mudd, an ADPI from Md., and Bill Bell gave his to Thelma... Jack Pruden's heart "Sig Ep, that is" now belongs to Marjorie Manning... Max Loomis, ChiO, pinned to Pete Smith, SAE... Mary Dougherty is now wearing Hobart Pepper's KA pin 'neath her Theta pledge pin...

The "Egad, this looks serious" Department... Millie Bishop is sporting a diamond from Tom Pacl... Virginia Blakenship, Pi Phi, is lovely, and engaged to a Yale student... Sigma Nu, Bill Muck engaged to a girl in Miami... ZTA's Ruth Ramsdell received quite a sparkler over the holidays... Nita Hall, Sigma Kappa, came back from Nashville after the Holidays with an engagement ring. The male involved is George Anderson, Vanderbilt University Law Student...

Serious heck, this is fatal... Two Sigma Nu's muddled-aisled it, Bob Tripp married Anne Hawthorne, while Frank Reifsnider and Sally Evans took the plunge... Jacqueline Scott, Phi Mu alumna became the bride of Major George Bartlett in Nanking, China. She was presented in marriage by Colonel Boniface Campbell, Chief of Staff of the Joint United States Military Advisory Group to the Republic of China...

The Post Mortem Department... The Sailing Association held its New Years Eve party at the home of Jill Hanbury, and from what we hear it was quite a party. A chair broke when Pat Granger sat on Bob Harwood's lap. Bob blamed it on Pat by saying, "It didn't break when I sat on it." A traffic cop was almost called in to direct the couples who were rushing to "the little room downstairs." Jerry Rockowitz was seen hiding a firecracker in a bowl of potato chips. Early in the morning it was hard to tell which of the two Tait brothers, Reid and Jack, came to the party with Mary Bauernschmidt. And to top the whole thing off, Lane Thompson's 1931 Willys finally served a good purpose. He brought along some liquid which was distilled in the radiator... The Teke's who didn't go home had one continuous mad party during the holidays... The most outstanding dance of the ZTA Pledge Formal was an energetic Polka requested by Al Baloga, Teke, who wins the prize of "Betty Hutton 1949"... Last Sunday the DZ's and the Acacians had an exchange...

Flotsam and Jetsam Department... Jim Hall, Kappa Sig, alias Alan Ladd still trying to make people understand the difference between "Doris" and "Dolores"... The Sig Eps would like to know where pledge Rolly Allen spends all his evenings... Three Theta Deltis were recently discussing when they should wash their socks. The first said that he knew it was time to "suds 'em" when they stood alone. The second claimed he knew his were dirty when he threw them against the ceiling and they stuck there. The third said that he knew it was time for Ivory care when he threw them against the ceiling and they went straight through... It is now definite that the only thing that Caroline Miller and Ruddy Miller, Kappa Sig, have in common is there last name... The Teke's latest claim to fame is George Cooper's ability to dial a phone with his big toe... Theta's Nancy Cochran and Nan Roberts spent a very happy week during Plebe Christmas at West Point... Hank Bartelloni, PiKA pinned Ann Blair... KA Freddy Fortugno and Sigma Chi Tom Dougherty, came back to school with the sharpest Christmas presents we've seen in a long time. Freddy has a new Buick convertible while Tom has a new Studebaker... When Jim Pearce dragged his bedraggled carcass to church last Sunday after the Tacky Ball to teach his Bible class, one of the little monsters greeted him with, "Gad, you look like you've had it." Well, Jim?... FLASH... PiKA has just announced that they will NOT sue for alienation of affection now that Dream Girl of 1947, Kappa Anne Diffenderfer, has become the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

Your how-nosey-can-we-get reporters,

Mitzy Misty and Bernie Stern.

Chemistry Honorary Pledges Two Members

• IOTA SIGMA PI, national chemistry honorary for women, will pledge Margaret Cammer and Marianne Freeman Friday, January 14, at 8 p.m. in Columbian House.

At the meeting, Helen Ross, chapter secretary, will give a report on the National Iota Sigma PI Convention which she attended last summer. A tea will follow the meeting.

Polonium Chapter held its annual laboratory supper December 4 in the Qualitative Analysis Laboratory.

Debate at Richmond

• UNIVERSITY students Charles Lillen and Henry Krebbs, who recently won the Old Dominion Debate Tournament at the University of Richmond, debated by invitation in Richmond's second annual Convocation debate on January 6, before an audience of about one thousand.

Tacky Ball Sees Apes, Underwear As Potomac Boat Club Rocks

• KAPPA ALPHA'S Tacky Ball, traditionally thrown by the pledges every year for the actives, was held last Saturday evening at the Potomac Boat Club. More dates than KA's are seen in this shot.

KA Pledges Lambast Actives

By ARCH HARRISON

• A STRANGE ASSORTMENT of creatures ranging from the hairy ape (Bob Tull) and his mate (Claire Jennings) to the organ grinder (Bill Deck) and his monkey (Marilyn Brownfield) were in attendance at the annual Tacky Ball given by the pledges of Kappa Alpha last Saturday night.

Setting the mood for the party was a sign at the entrance reading "Not responsible for dates left over thirty days." Elsewhere were interesting signs referring to the feats and foibles of the actives and odds and ends of feminine unmentionables.

While things were still coherent the pledges presented a very clever set of skits depicting the life of the pledge class. The author, Jack Skelley, deserves special mention for his hilarious dialogue; sample: "He got fined for playing Pony Express—that's Post Office, with a little more horsing around." Everyone got his share of the lampooning. The Rebelaires were greeted with a screechy version of "Coney Island Baby" by the Rebelettes of the pledge class, and those two eminent artists, Bob Reiss and Chuck Paul, were forced to perform for the crowd. The art work consisted of decorating the baldish head of Joe Cookson and the flowing mane of Harvey Coleman with whipped cream, candies, oranges, and cigarettes. Very attractive pasties they were, too.

To prove that a course in baby handling is necessary for every man, Orch Bennington was made to demonstrate how to put a diaper on. The baby provided for the demonstration was plump, lovable "King" Benson; baby powder was provided by the makers of Saniflush.

Prizes were awarded for every conceivable excuse. Bob Tull and his date won the prize for the cleverest attire, while Bud Hebson was awarded "A Hard Time" for being the most uncooperative active.

The party was held at the Potomac Boat Club, music was by Addie Lawyer's orchestra, and the entire production was under the direction of Jack Skelley and George McGuinness.

Things wound up early in the morning, and as the last guest left in his fuchsia and Mexican orange "jongles" he was heard to remark, "...!"

Army Inaugurates Postgrad Program at University Hospital

• TWO ARMY physicians are taking postgraduate studies at the University Hospital under a program whereby the Army Medical Departments is using some 25 civilian hospitals, clinics and professional schools to give advanced training to service physicians, dentists, nurses, veterinarians, hospital administrators, allied scientists, dietitians, and physical and occupational therapists.

The physicians are Dr. David E. Pottit, resident in medicine, who received his M. D. degree from the University of Tennessee, and Dr. Joseph A. Connor, fellow in medicine who was graduated from the George Washington University School of Medicine.

Other colleges and universities cooperating under the Army program include Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, California, Colorado, Harvard, Tufts, Columbia, New York, Johns Hopkins, Washington (St. Louis), and Northwestern. Other institutions include St. Elizabeths, Massachusetts General, Barnes General, Shriners and other hospitals, and Mayo Foundation and Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

IFPC Dance Honors Pledges

• IFC PLEDGE DANCE—A large group of fraternity and sorority pledges attended an informal dance given by the Interfraternity Pledge Council last Saturday night from 9:00 p.m. till 12 in the Hangar Room of the National Airport.

The room was decorated with the banners of the different fraternities and sororities. The music was provided by Bill Crichtlow's seven piece band.

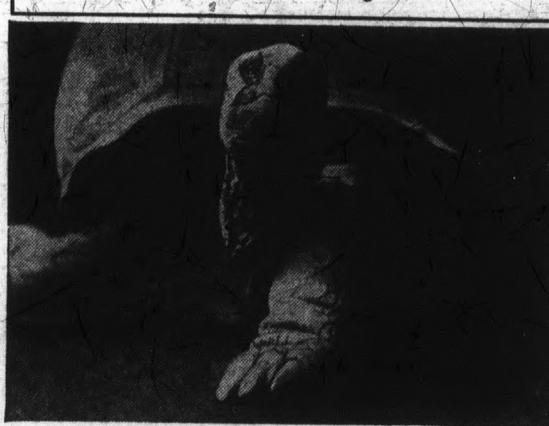

June Cohen Wins Award For Med Paper

• JUNE COHEN, 25-year-old senior in the University School of Medicine, was awarded a $200 prize for her paper on "Hormones in the Maintenance of Pregnancy" at ceremonies in the Dean's office at the School of Medicine last December 9.

Miss Cohen placed third in the annual contest of the Schering Corporation of Bloomfield, N. J., a contest open to all medical students in the United States. Her prize was presented by Dr. Milton Amster, alumnus of the University and member of the Schering Corporation, who came to Washington for the occasion. Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, dean of the University School of Medicine, witnessed the presentation.

Miss Cohen is a graduate of Central High School and took her undergraduate work at the University. She is a member of the Smith-Reed-Russell honor society for medical students and now stands first in her class of 69 students.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

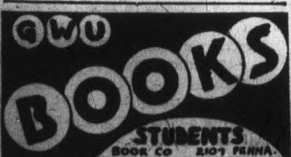

THE hair that bothered this tortoise didn't run him a race, as they "tort-us" back in school. His hair just kept getting in his eyes! Being naturally slow, it took some time for him to try the Finger-Nail Test. But when he did, brother, did he move fast for a bottle of Wildroot Cream-Oil—and look at him now! No more dryness and loose, ugly dandruff! Wildroot Cream-Oil keeps his hair well groomed all day long.

What non-alcoholic Wildroot Cream-Oil containing Lanolin did for Sheedy, it can do for you. So get a bottle or tube today at the nearest drug or toilet goods counter. And have your barber give you professional applications. You'll like what Wildroot Cream-Oil does for your hair—so mock this turtle and start using it today.

Civil Service To Conduct Trainee Exams

U. S. CIVIL SERVICE Commission announces that applications are being accepted for two student aid (trainee) examinations for filling positions in various scientific fields. The first, announced by the central office of the Commission, concerns optional fields of engineering, chemistry, mathematics, metallurgy, physics, meteorology, and geology.

The positions pay $2,498 and $2,724 a year and are in the Bureau of Standards, the Bureau of Aeronautics, and other agencies located in Washington. Meteorologist positions in the Weather Bureau will also be filled throughout the United States.

This examination is open to sophomores and junior students who expect to complete all the required courses by June 30, 1949.

The other student aid examination was announced by the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners of the Potomac River Naval Command for filling trainee positions paying $2,724 in various naval establishments in Washington, D. C., and vicinity.

This examination includes all of the optional fields mentioned above except meteorology and geology. The examination is open only to Juniors.

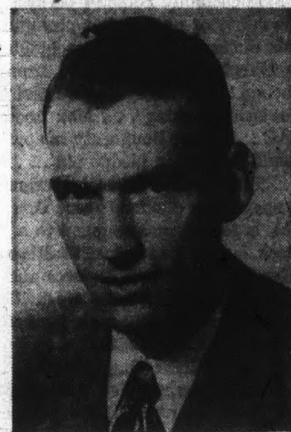

Applications for central office examination must be on file with the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., not later than February 1, 1949. Applications for training in naval establishments must be on file not later than January 12, 1949, with the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for Scientific and Technical Personnel of the Potomac River Naval Command, Building 37, Naval Research Laboratory, Washington 20, D. C.

Voneiff Succeeded By Cullen As President Of ODK Honorary

FRANK CULLEN, incumbent ODK vice-president and Law School student, succeeds Jack Voneiff as president of ODK.

Frank Cullen, new ODK president, has a distinguished record of campus activities at the University, the University of Florida, and the University of Alabama. A former member of the Engineers

Council, assistant to the President of the Student Council, Editor of the University of Florida daily paper, and now a student in the University Law School, Frank will assume office immediately.

Voneiff resigned as president last Sunday evening, because he will graduate in February. Former Hatchet business manager, Pi Delta Epsilon president, and member of Sigma Nu, Jack has led ODK through its leadership in many University campus activities during the past year. Elected in the spring of 1948, he has directed the founding of Colonial Boosters, establishment of an information booth in the Student Club for new students during registration, participation in an enlarged Freshman orientation program, and the institution of weekly ODK lunches in the Faculty Club.

Wray Takes First In All-U Contest

JAMES WRAY won the men's division of the All-University Oratorical Contest held last Friday evening and will represent the University in various intercollegiate contests in the spring, along with Eulalie Harrison, who won the women's contest before the holidays.

Judges of the men's division were Mr. Andrew Nilles of the Commerce Department, Dr. Lawrence Folkemer of the Department of Religion, and Charles Matthews, a graduate student at the University and winner of last year's contest.

Hillel To Fete

Dr. Burnice Jarman

DR. BURNICE G. JARMAN, University Registrar, will be guest of honor at Hillel Foundation's Coffee Hour tomorrow afternoon at 3 p.m., Hillel House, 2129 F. Street, N. W. All University students are invited.

Tomorrow's program will be fourth in Hillel's coffee-with-professors-and-cream series, inaugurated last year as a friendly, outside-class meeting ground for faculty members and students. Other sessions this semester have starred Dean Kayser, Dean Koenig, and Dr. Acheson.

Geographers

Meet Tomorrow

THE UNIVERSITY GEOGRAPHICAL society will hold a meeting tomorrow evening in the Geography Building, room 101. The attendance of all M.A. candidates or potential candidates is required in that Mr. Campbell, the Executive Officer, wishes to make an important announcement. The speaker for the evening will be Mr. Harry McPhillimy, geographer with the Office of the Quartermaster General, who will speak on the program of the annual meetings of the A.S.P.G. and A.A.G.

Unusual Events, Some Tragic, Make Garden Tilt Expensive

• GEORGE WASHINGTON'S BASKETBALL game at Madison Square Garden last Tuesday night was an expensive one. The price included two deaths: one, a student traveling to the game; another, the father of George Garber, the Colonial basketball coach. Also included in the price, were the injuries sustained by five other students of the University on their way to see the game.

Still another tragedy connected with the trip to New York was the illness of Phil McNiff's father, who is on the critical list at a Brooklyn hospital where he has been confined with pneumonia. Add to these occurrences the anguish, uncertainty and dread which has marked the past four months for Dave Shapiro, culminating in the rapid rise to fame of the squad's co-captain.

Six members of Phi Alpha Fraternity, full of school spirit, were going to New York to support their team in its biggest game in recent years. Disaster overtook them eighteen miles on the other side of Baltimore, in the form of an accident in which all of the students were injured; Paul Gordon with a broken jaw and a lacerated neck; George Kruger sustaining a fractured skull, which later proved fatal; Harry Shapiro with part of his thumb and another finger amputated and a lacerated ear; Irving Fleishman suffering a bad cut over his right eye and a badly cut right hand; Martin "Bo" Kirsh sustaining a broken collar bone and two broken ribs, and Ira "Ike" Kalfus having injured a rib, lacerated his face and suffered a broken collar bone.

About an hour and a half after the ill-fated game, Coach George Garber heard the news of his father's death. To have "Jug's" fine success in piloting the Colonial's through their best game marred by so great a tragedy was a terrible blow.

Friday night found hoopster Phil McNiff on the way back from the bedside of his critically ill father.

Jaspers Topped By Buff Cagers In Garden Test

By HERB SCHNIP

• UNAWARE OF THE SENSATIONAL dramatic events which were taking place behind the scenes, a severely under-rated George Washington quintet romped to a 71-63 victory before some 18,000 surprised fans at Madison Tuesday night. The victory was the first ever garnered by a George Washington team in Garden competition, Colonial representatives having lost in 1937 to L. I. U. and again in 1942 to St. John's.

Coach Garber's men were a visibly nervous outfit when they took the floor, many of them markedly conscious of the presence of friends and the importance of a Garden performance. However, the Buffmen jumped to a quick seven point lead over the highly touted Jaspers, and for all but one or two brief moments, never lost command of the game.

Manhattan, which had lost only one previous encounter, and that to an unbeaten Bradley U. team, tried desperately to regain their form against the fast-starting Colonials, managing to knot the count at 15-15 mid-way in the first half. The Colonials, however, displaying more hand drive and fight than at any other time this season, opened up with a few minutes remaining, and took a 33-27 lead at halftime.

It was the extreme determination of Garber's men which early in the contest reflected itself in the personal foul column. With only eight minutes of the game gone, the severely critical Garden officials had called four personals against Lenny Small, who until that time had mustered nine points in his best display of set-shooting to date. Ace Adler, a few moments later, had a fourth personal called against

Quint Returns Home To Battle Hoyas, VMI

• ANXIOUS TO MAINTAIN its unblemished record on Washington courts, the Colonial five will oppose a strong Georgetown squad under the lights of the Armory tomorrow night at 8:30. George Washington remains in town for a Saturday night duel with VMI at Eastern High School.

The Buff and Blue cagers started off the new year successfully by upsetting Manhattan University; however, the Colonials were in turn upset by the Deacons of Wake Forest, 50-38, last Saturday night.

As is the case with all Hoya-

Buff Frosh Beat Bullis In Tabernacle

• SURGING TO A 12-0 lead before giving up a goal, the Buff and Blue frosh cagers triumphed over a weak Bullis Prep quintet on the George Washington "Tin Tabernacle" court yesterday afternoon by a score of 52-35.

The young Colonials hope to extend their undefeated streak tomorrow night when they meet the Georgetown frosh in the preliminary game to the Colonial-Hoya clash at the Armory.

It took Coach Bo Sherman's cagers three minutes to hit the cords in yesterday's fray, but when the Leviton swished through a set shot, the Buffmen were on their way to their fourth straight victory against no setbacks. With Leviton and Bud Goglin alternating the scoring honors, the frosh completely overwhelmed the smaller Bullis hoopsters.

Goglin took over for the ailing Wally Warner as high scorer and playmaker for the frosh. The rangy center led the scoring parade with 8 field goals and 3 foul shots for a 19 point total, followed by Logan who garnered 12 tallies. Leviton was the other heavy Colonial scorer with 9 points. Not one of the Colonials was removed from the game on personal fouls.

BULLETIN

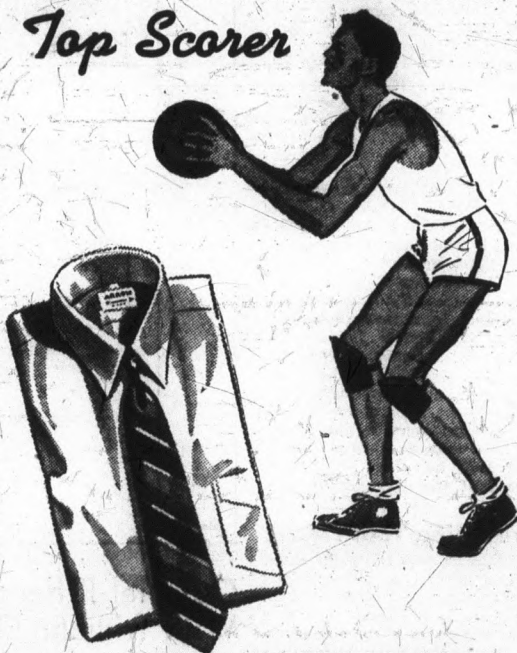

• CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—The Colonials snapped back from their debacle at Wake Forest Saturday night to overcome the NC Tarheels, last night, 64-41. Bill Cantwell had his best of the season with 21 points. Dave Shapiro also showed best performance with 11 points, tying with Haithecock and McNiff for the evening.

Colonial scraps, the battle coming up Saturday night rates as an outstanding cage fray, perhaps the top action of the current campaign. Certainly, both Elmer Ripley's stalwarts and George Garber's charges have known moments of greatness and moments of defeat this year.

Georgetown was at its best when victorious over John Carroll in Cleveland and Penn State. The most recent triumph for the Blue and Gray was a win over Richmond by a 69-44 score, last Saturday night. By comparing this count to that of the George Washington victory over the Spiders, which was 68-49, it would seem that the Buff-

SCHNIP'S CLIPPINGS

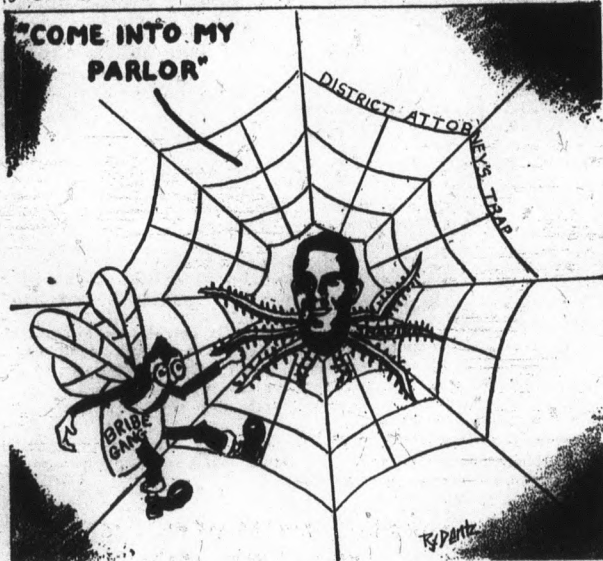

By HERB SCHNIP

• JUST ABOUT A YEAR AGO, there appeared in this space an article entitled "Some Heroes Never Make the Headlines," by Skip Foster, Hatchet Sports Editor at the time. Ironically enough, the column dealt with the misfortunes of Dave Shapiro, who was currently out of action due to a leg injury sustained in last year's Duke game.

Let me quote Foster's words, "You tell yourself maybe next year, and I guess that Dave feels that way, perhaps next season the fates will be a bit kinder to a terrific ball player and genuine personality. Maybe next year will be Dave Shapiro's year to draw a lot more of the gravy that he assuredly deserves. . . ."

Skip Foster's tribute to a "genuine personality," a pretty accurate description of Dave Shapiro, certainly was not exaggeration, as events of last week pointed out. Dave Shapiro was destined to make the headlines, not for his ball-playing ability, being that type of defensive team man who seldom takes scoring honors, but for an off-the-court performance which merits greater praise than any feat ever accomplished in the field of athletics.

'SAID THE SPIDER TO THE FLY'

New York District Attorney Frank S. Hogan summarized the courageous action of the George Washington co-captain very thoroughly when he said, "Mr. Shapiro, under terrific tension and over a period of many months and at the expense of great inconvenience, has rendered an extraordinary service to the public and to law enforcement." The words of Mr. Hogan were rephrased and echoed across the nation—in editorials, on sport pages, among college students, in pulpits, and by every person with a sincere scorn for the corrupt. But to Dave, there probably is no greater tribute than that contributed by his own team-mates.

In a very short time, many of us at George Washington will attempt to show our appreciation to Dave Shapiro for what he has done by offering perhaps a dinner in his honor, perhaps, a gift. However, one way in which we can all honor a George Washington representative who has contributed greatly to the reputation of our university—and thereby to the credit of all of us—is to be present tomorrow night at the Armory, where the greatest ovation ever offered a George Washington athlete will be given him.

Expensive

and television, that there is no necessity to repeat it here. The indignities and inconveniences that Dave went through were innumerable, bringing credit not only to himself, but to his school, his fraternity, his relatives and friends, and to college basketball in general. Just a few days before the game, Dave had been awarded the Harry M. Bierman National Athletic Award from Phi Alpha Fraternity, in recognition of his past record of service to his school and his fraternity. But no award can erase the heartache, the loss of weight, loss of sleep and the mental pain caused by the past four months.

The Manhattan game and its connected circumstances were certainly expensive.

McNiff Leads Loop

• PRIOR TO GAMES of last night, G.W.'s Phil McNiff continued to hold down first place in the Southern Conference scoring race, having amassed a total of 67 points in 6 Conference tilts. Freddie Anson of V.M.I. ranks second to the Colonial's scrappy guard with 60 points in 4 games. Other Buffmen who retained their positions among the top ten Conference scorers include co-captain "Buster" Halthcock, fifth in the standings with 51 points, and Johnny Mofatt, who ranks ninth among the leaders with a scoring mark of 47.

A number of Colonials will move up in the standings as a result of last night's game at Chapel Hill. Bill Cantwell's additional 21 points give him 56 in Conference competition.

Loop Cagers Face Week's Heavy Sched

• SOUTHERN CONFERENCE basketball rivals get down to serious business this week with a total of 12 conference tilts slated before next Tuesday.

The league has progressed far enough now, so that the jumble of top clubs is thinning out and the picture is not dissimilar to Southern Conference football this past fall. With some exceptions, the leaders appear to include North Carolina, Clemson, Duke, and William and Mary, who were high in the pigskin competition. Those two exceptions are George Washington and North Carolina State. The Wolfpack has proved its superiority over the Colonials already this year, but the Conference champs of last year are pretty much interested in other loop areas. Sparked by Dick Dickey, State has spent most of its season so far on the road, and the road has been rather rough thus far. The Wolfpack ran up a string of losses, the most recent being to New York University 65-61 in Madison Square Garden and to Villanova 62-59 at the Pennsylvania school. George Washington has been most active in conference competition and had a 3-3 record going into the North Carolina game last night.

Topping the conference for the last weeks has been the strong North Carolina five. This quintet found the going tough outside of the conference, also, when the Tarheels dropped a Garden appearance to New York University, 72-48. This doesn't lessen the prestige of the Chapel Hill club, which is fated to give N. C. State the most competition.

The North Carolina-Wake Forest tilt tomorrow should determine the intentions of the Deacons in loop circles, while Clemson makes an appearance at Furman on Thursday. The Tigers will be favorites, as will Wake Forest in its Friday clash with South Carolina. Maryland entertains VMI Friday night, while William and Mary will make its bid for loop recognition against an unpredictable W&L quintet.

The Indians take on VPI the next night, Saturday, which will find Wake Forest and Clemson paired off, VMI and George Washington battling, and North Carolina stopping off at W&L. Saturday night's big game, however, will be the NC State-Duke fracas at Durham. Duke is another of the squads which are rated a chance to topple State from its throne and Saturday night should determine how well Duke will live up to its advance publicity.

Andy Wins Award

• ANDY DAVIS, who has had more honors heaped upon him than any other Colonial since the days of Tuffy Leemans, received still another laurel last Saturday night at the annual Touchdown Club's dinner at the Statler Hotel. The Touchdowners presented the brilliant G.W. freshman fullback the award as the outstanding college player in the District for his remarkable performance during the past grid season. All-America material Andy has three years more of football eligibility remaining.

Swimming Team Meet

• COACH ELMER HIPSLEY called the first meeting of the swimming team on January 3 in the YMCA. Last year's D. C. champs, the team looks forward to a successful season. The following men won letters last year, and the coach plans to build the team around them, Paul Fite, last year's captain, Bill Nutter, Captain this year, Bill Haven, Ed Pierce, Irving Michaels, Dean Holt. Anyone interested in trying out for a place on the team may do so by reporting to the YMCA Wednesday night at 8 p.m. January 12.

With The Women

By BEANIE PEEL

• WITH ONLY one week remaining before the season's first game, class basketball players are practicing hard and squads are gradually shaping up into polished teams. The tail end of the coming week will find the Freshmen opposing the Juniors on the hardwood and the Sophomores hoping to vanquish the Seniors.

The Sophomore-Senior game will probably be the best of the two, and the sister classes are expected to act like anything but sisters in the year's first interclass scrap. Hildegarde Sterling, Marian Baker, JoAnn Houk, and Ann Shepard will lead their Sophomore squad against a scrambled but scrappy Senior team. Gisela Sterling, reconverted forward, Calva Kephart, and Lynn Mitchell will likely do the shooting for the Seniors, while Ann Arnold, Pat Pope, and Betty Kline will guard the Sophomore basketweavers.

OUTCOME UNCERTAIN

Outcome of the Junior-Freshman contest is anybody's guess. Betty Bamber, Sylvia Srnka, Genevieve Sonnier, Marjorie Hill, and Jean Tully will be in there fighting for the Juniors against and untied Frosh squad. No one seems to know just what the Freshmen can do as a team, but everyone agrees that Pat Moore, Annette Ruben, Julia Hall, and Daphne Hobson will form the nucleus of the squad.

The games will mark the girls' first competition under the new limited dribble rule, and play will be closely watched. The rule should make for a higher scoring game, with lay-ups, usually hard for girls, benefiting considerably. At present George Washington seems to have better guards than forwards, but the dribble should give an advantage to the forwards which should just about even things. The games next week should be good. There will be no pushovers in the entire Round Robin tournament.

Lynn Mitchell, hockey manager, has released the names of the girls chosen to the Hockey Honorary Varsity. These girls, who will receive 200 points toward their WRA letter, are listed below.

Making up the forward line of the varsity team are Mary Strain, Hildegarde Sterling, Lynn Mitchell, Calva Kephart, and Marian Baker. Virginia Myers, Joan Brannon, Gladys Mora, Penny Seleen, Jean Tully, and Beanie Peel were selected to fill the backfield positions. Sub-varsity players are Betty DeJong, Dionne Darlton, and Holly Bates. They will each receive 185 points under the WRA awards system. No manager off next year has yet been chosen.

BANQUET

Previewing the winter sports season and reviewing the results of the fall competition, members of WRA will feast on chicken and will be presented with athletic monograms at the annual Fall Awards Banquet, to be held Thursday night, January 13, at the Elks Club.

Minor and major letters, stars, and manager's letters will be awarded to participants in fall sports. All University women are invited to attend. Tickets, which are being sold for only $1.75, may be obtained from members of WRA or from the central office of the "Women's Physical Education Dep't." The dinner will begin at 6:30 p. m., in the Antler Room of the Elks Club, 919 H St., N. W. BADMINTON CHAMPS PLAY AT CLINIC

In the campaign to develop more and better badminton players in the District, the Badminton Committee of Washington is sponsoring a clinic to be held January 13 at 8 p. m., in the American University gymnasium.

Mr. William Shreve, tennis coach here at George Washington, will conduct the clinic which will include teaching procedures, demonstrations of strokes and strategy, an exhibition matches. The badminton champions of the District will demonstrate a wide variety of strokes and playing strategy, with explanatory comment to be made by Mr. Shreve.

Colonial Riflemen Start New Year With Triumph Over Marine Squad

• GEORGE WASHINGTON'S rifle squad defeated the Marine Corps Headquarters team by a score of 1,367 to 1,351, last Wednesday night.

While Sergeant Bill Hunley topped the individual scorers with a 286 total, the combined George Washington scoring edged that of the Marines by sixteen points. Bill Hunley paced the Buffmen, being tied with Walsh in prone shooting, leading both clubs with 97 in kneeling position, and dropping back on in the standing position shooting.

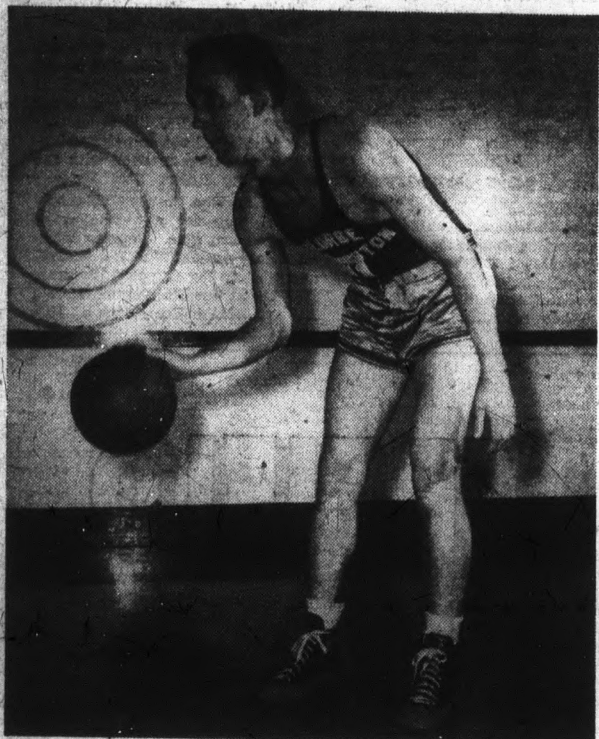

This first match since the Georgetown defeat five weeks ago, found the Buff and Blue a much improved squad and fast becoming used to the hip rest, which is now being used instead of the military style.

Though Tom Moncure, last year's intercollegiate champ, has graduated, the Colonial squad boasts a lineup of capable shots, backed up by a hard-pressing group of reserves. Carrying off the honors so far have been Bill Hunley, Gene Liberty, Wayne Biddahl, and Bill Eicke. Intercollegiate competition will get underway as soon as the schedules have been worked out, Coach Frank Parsons disclosed.

Long On Work, Short On Glory 'Bus' Haithcock Steadies Five

• CO-CAPTAIN MAYNARD HAITHCOCK was high scored in the Manhattan game, putting in one of his very rare performances as a noticeable "star." Buster is not the type of netman who is usually played up in screaming headlines or who figures prominently in the scoring columns, and yet he is the type of player without whom the Colonials would fall flat.

In the words of Tom Coleman, George Washington's sports publicity man, "Maynard is often the best man on the floor, but invariably the last one noticed."

His 6'2" height enables Buster to get rebounds off the backboards and his general inclination to hustle and keep on the move, undeniably make him the most valuable defensive player on the Colonial squad. When it comes to offense, his smooth ball-handling and unselfish readiness to pass the ball to a team mate in a better spot makes him a most valuable asset to the team, but doesn't show up in his scoring record. Bus can also astound the spectators with his accurate, dead-eye set shots, but, again, uses them rarely in order to set up a surer lay up for a team-mate. Always a steady player, he has not failed to put in a creditable performance all year.

Bus hails from Macon, N. C., and whenever he plays in his home state, has a raft-load of friends and relations cheering for him. He is majoring in Physical Education here and hopes to be a basketball coach soon after graduating in May.

Varsity

men are in for an evenly matched, high scoring struggle this Saturday night. In the Richmond-Georgetown fray, Spider forward Art Haines was held to 3 points; witnesses of the Richmond-Colonial game will remember the deadly accuracy of Haines, who tallied 13 points.

This victory over Richmond moved the Hilltoppers over the 500 mark to give them a 4-3 record for the year. The Hoyas met their other local rival, Maryland, in a hoop tussle last night.

The Buff cagers will shed no tears when they don't see Danny Kraus on the Georgetown roster Saturday night. Kraus was a thorn in the side of George Washington last year and this position has been endowed to Tom O'Keefe. O'Keefe has sparked the Hoyas in most of their engagements this season, though he is only one of five Hoyas that the Colonials will have to watch. Around O'Keefe, Georgetown has built a well-knit crew. Captain Ray Corley teams with O'Keefe as the offensive spark, but center John Mazzotta has also bulwarked the Hilltopper attack and rebound work.

It was neither O'Keefe nor Corley, however, who garnered the scoring honors last Saturday night at Richmond. Forward Johnny Brown and Guard Vince Leddy dumped in 11 points apiece. Thus the Colonials have to prepare their defense for five equally potent sharpshooters.

Against this quintet, George Washington will send a battle-hardened, revenge-intent club. Most the members of this year's Colonial five remember the two setbacks that the Buff took from the Hoyas last year. After dropping a 51-43 contest, the Blue and Gray eked out a 41-38 win over Otts Zahn's crew.

The Keydets of VMI proved to be easy competition for George Washington in their first meeting this season and will come to the Armory as definite underdogs.

Manhattan

him, and Coach Garber was forced to rest Small and Adler for the remainder of the half.

George Washington took the floor after halftime with the same split as at the beginning, but with their nervousness gone, and jumped to a 42-30 command after 3 minutes. The accurate shooting of Byster Haithcock from the outside, and Bill Cantwell inside, helped widen the margin to 16 points. The backboard work of the Burrmen was adept, as the comparatively short Colonials out-hustled the Jaspers' Mike Joyce, 6' 7", and Johnny Byrnes, 6' 3", on the rebounds.

After 4 Garbermen, Adler, Cantwell, Shapiro, and Small had fouled out, late in the contest the Kelly Greens threw a scare into the Buffmen. With 3 minutes to go, they narrowed the margin to 60-54, instituting a full-court press against the partially bewildered George Washington team. The steady influence of co-captain Hitchcock and Johnny Moffatt staved off the desperate Jaspers, and the Colonials went on to take the victory by the wide mark of 71-63.

SHORT CLIPS: Maynard Haithcock took game scoring honors as he sunk five goals and eight foul shots for 18 points. Eight from the foul line marks a new 2 year high for Buffmen. . . The Colonials were a bit surprised to be pressed for autographs by kid admirers during the half and after the game. . . Some of the kids must have afterwards considered themselves lucky to come away with Dave Shapiro's moniker. . . The New York crowd seemed very partial to George Washington—but it could have been the tremendous number of relatives and acquaintances of New Yorkers Shapiro, Small, Cantwell, Witkin, Adler and McNiff.

MEET THE ALUMNI

By ED LEWIS

• HERE'S A PROFILE ON A REAL COACH—a coach who knows the game. He's Arthur David "Otts" Zahn, headman of the Colonial basketeers, now on protracted sick leave. "Otts" is a Washington man; he attended Eastern High School, where he got his start in athletics, playing baseball and basketball, and was chosen for the All-City basketball team of the District in his senior year. He came to G. W. in the fall of 1929 and started right in playing frosh basketball and winning his first letter in guard position. "Otts" carried his hang-up ball playing over into the varsity quint on an athletic scholarship, still at guard, in his sophomore and junior years, and captained the Colonials in his senior year.

Zahn's athletic prowess wasn't limited to basketball; he was cagey with a baseball, playing with the G. W. nine in 1933, when said sport was just coming into its own in Foggy Bottom. He captained the baseball team during the 1934 season, infielding at shortstop, second and first bases. "Otts" wound up his collegiate athletics with a total of five varsity letters, and having been chosen by the D. C. Sportswriters for All-District cage line-ups twice.

He was also active in intramural baseball in his first two years at George Washington due to the fact that there was no intercollegiate baseball at the time. A member of Gate and Key, he was also an active Phi Sigma Kappa on campus. Mr. Zahn received his A. B. in Economics in 1934 and immediately after graduation went to work for the N. R. A.

He also played semi-pro and professional basketball with certain Pennsylvania teams and captained the Christian Heurich Brewers, a well-known and popular Washington entry in the American League.

Zahn started coaching Frosh basketball in 1935, only a year after graduation; he acted in this capacity until the '42-'43 season when Coach Bill Reinhart entered the Navy and G. W. dropped out of inter-collegiate athletics for the war's duration. He remained on the administrative staff here and in the '47-'48 season he became full-time coach.

Just before the '48-'49 season started Coach Zahn became ill and it was necessary for him to be hospitalized. George "Jug" Garber has taken over the coaching helm pending Mr. Zahn's recovery.

• ARTHUR ZAHN, Colonial basketball star back in the early '30s. Recognize him?

• COACH "OTTS" ZAHN, Colonial basketball mentor, '48 (shortly before admission to hospital).

Quarter of Leagues Sewed Up; Catamounts, Farkas, Ramblers Set

• MOST OF THE UNCERTAINTY has disappeared from the Intramural League with one league decided, two teams clinching the championships of their leagues, and another increasing an already strong lead. Catamounts were won for position in League A; Farkas A team and the Ramblers have inched the crown in League B and League C respectively. The Pharmacy team is practically assured of winning the championship in League D.

In this week's action, there was only one game in League D which was won by the Clowns 27-26 defeating the Vikings in a very close game that was not decided until the last few seconds of the game. Delasos was the high point man for the Clowns netting eight points. Clark of Vikings was the games high point man putting through nine points.

Farkas A team rolled over the Eastern Bombers in the first game of League B winning with ease, 38-16. Johnny Grinnel got 22 points for the victors while Amster led the Bombers with ten.

In the second game of League B, Bradley Hall had an easy time with the Seagram's Five team rolling up 39 points to 27. Pleasant of Bradley Hall was the game's high point man with fifteen points, closely followed by Simon of Seagram's with fourteen.

The Ramblers clinched the title in League C by knocking off Farkas B by thirty points. The final score being 50-20. Dixie Howell was the leading scorer of the game with fifteen Minifree and Caruso followed close behind with fourteen and ten.

The Black Knights eased by the Kappas in a close, low-scoring game, 19-18.

PiKA, Sig Chi Extended In Wins; KA, Theta Deltas, TKE Victorious

By GENE LEONARD

• RESUMING PLAY after the long holidays, the fraternity basketball leagues swung into action with five games. The results followed the pattern that had been set in previous games, however. Both Sigma Chi and PiKA, current leaders of league A, were extended but managed to remain undefeated. PiKA had some difficulty with a surprisingly strong Delta Tau Delta club but Frank Close, Jim Kline and Walt Savage poured through five quick field goals to give PiKA a comfortable margin of nine points, the final score being 37-28. Ace Schiemer and Johnny Krefling led the Deltas with eight points each, while Frank Close was the high scorer for the PiKA's.

In the closest game of the day, KA slipped by AEPI 22-20. The game was nip and tuck all the way, with KA holding a slim lead of three points at the half. In the second half, AEPI got hot and tied up the score several times, but KA, with Arch Bennington, Bob Tull and Jack Skelly coming through with field goals finally held their lead. Bob Tull with ten points was the high point man for the victors, while Walt Rosenberg led AEPI with five points.

Sigma Chi won over winless Kappa Sigma in the nightcap of League A, 28-19. The game was much closer than the score indicates and Kappa Sig led at the half 12-11. The second half was played on even terms up until the last three minutes when a flurry of baskets extended Sigma Chi to pull away by a safe margin.

In the first game in League B, Theta Delta Chi's fast break proved too much for the Phi Sigs and Theta Delt took the decision 34-22. The first half was close with Theta Delt holding a 15-11 lead. However, with John Donahue, Tom Hurst, and Ralph O'Brien breaking around the tiring Phi Sig guards, the winners score began to mount. At the end of the third quarter the score stood at 26-17. With three minutes left Theta Delt had run the score up to 32-19, Joe Inzinna coming through with a field goal and a free throw to finish the scoring of the losers while Tom Hurst dropped a long shot with fifteen seconds left to end the game.

A curious side light of this game was the inability of both teams to make good on their free throws; Theta Delt was only successful in four out of eleven, while the losers were much worse and were only able to convert on two out of thirteen. Donahue, Hurst and O'Brien were the big guns of the winners accounting for three quarters of the scoring of Theta Delt. Donahue had with eight, O'Brien had eleven and Hurst followed with six points. Joe Inzinna was the Phi Sig's high man scoring eight points.

In the last game of the day TKE, up to this time winless, finally got rolling and really poured it on the Acacia team 41-15. . . The TKE's took advantage of the inept Acacia's to make up for their previous three defeats. John McDonough had the hot hand for the winners and scored seven field goals and made three out of four free throws to amass seventeen points for the winners. Bob Moss was the chief scorer for the losing Acacia team totaling six points.

at National Airport.

Mr. Daniel C. Vaughn, of the Potomac Electric Power Co., spoke to the Am. Inst. of Electrical Engineers (AIEE) on "Problems of System Planning," at their regular meeting Wednesday evening. Mr. Vaughn pointed out the steadiness of positions in the power field, a field not subject to the fluctuations which sometimes plague engineers in other fields. The talk was followed by a question and answer period from the floor. Mr. Vaughn is a former University instructor.

Field inspection trips are planned in the early part of the next semester, to which all engineering students are specifically invited and any other interested students. These trips will be to places like the Naval Research Laboratories at White Oak, Md., and will be announced later.

There will be a mixer for all engineering students the first Wednesday of the new semester.
